PREFACE.

The present Trustees of some of the Frome Charities think it may conduce to the continuance of the proper management of those Charities, and perhaps prevent their being lost, forgotten, or confused, (as has formerly happened) if an Account of them be recorded in Print.

They, therefore, have compiled this book, which contains a Copy of the Report of the Commissioners lately appointed by Government to enquire into the Charities in England,—and the Trustees have added such additional information as they think useful.

This Report of the Commissioners is contained in their general Report of the Charities throughout England, printed in several large folios. Mr. WICKHAM attended the Commissioners for several days when they were at Frome, in the year 1819, and is confident that the Report is generally accurate. A few errors he has corrected.

The late Mr. ABRAHAM CROCKER, in the year 1815, printed a small quarto book, entitled “An Historical Account of the Frome Charities,” and to this book reference is occasionally made in the present compilation, which also contains an Appendix, with an Addition to the Commissioners’ Report respecting the Charities mentioned by them, as well as some others which they had omitted, or which have been given since their Report.

For the sake of making this Account more complete, and useful to the Town of Frome in general, the Trustees have added a short Account of all the Charities in Frome which have come to their knowledge, whether under their own care or that of other Trustees.

Such accounts as are not taken from the Commissioners Report, or Mr. CROCKER'S Book, are compiled from authentic Documents, in the possession of Mr. WICKHAM; which Documents are mentioned in the Account of the respective Charities.

The Frome Charities consist of—

An Alms-House for Old Women.
A School for Boys, called the Blue Coat School.
A Hospital for Old Men.
An Asylum for Girls.

Also,

A Free Grammar School.
Jesser's Bequest.
Wadman's Gift.
Methuen's Gift.
Part of Ann Lacy's Gift.
Various Benefactions, mentioned in page 31.
A Church, in Frome Woodlands.
Christ Church, in the Town of Frome.
And a Sunday and National School.

The Alms-House, Blue School, Hospital, and Asylum, are at present under the management of the following Twenty Trustees:

and the following have been chosen, from time to time, as assistant Trustees, according to the particulars in page 5.

THOMAS BYARD SHEPPARD,
JOHN WHITE LITTLE,
JOHN OLIVE,
Rev. J. B. B. CLARKE,

[It must be remembered that when the present fifteen Trustees (in the above List of Trustees appointed by Deed,) are reduced to six, they must, as is stated particularly in page 5, choose and convey the Lands in their Trust by Deed to fourteen new Trustees, in addition to themselves, so as to make the whole number Twenty.]

The twenty Trustees for the management of the Alms-House and Blue School meet in the Vestry Room, on the first Monday after Christmas, the first Monday after Lady-Day, the first Monday after Midsummer, and the first Monday after Michaelmas, at Ten o'clock in the forenoon,—and they settle the Year's Account of the Alms-House and Blue School Charities at the Meeting after Michaelmas; when a new Annual Treasurer is appointed; each Trustee, excepting the Clergy, taking this office in rotation.

For the management of the Asylum and Hospital the twenty Trustees meet the second Monday after Christmas, Lady-Day, Midsummer, and Michaelmas; and they settle the Year's Account of these two Charities at the Meeting after Christmas.

The same Annual Treasurer is appointed for all four Charities, Mr. WICKHAM being perpetual Treasurer or Receiver as stated in page 103

There is a distinction as to the Trustees of the Charity called Stafford's Charity, of which particulars are given in pages 2 and 3.

Stafford's Will (besides a direction about a Conveyance) orders, that whenever any one vacancy occurs, the residue of the Trustees shall meet and choose one other on the next Sabbath. The following are now such Trustees, viz. :

JAMES ANTHONY WICKHAM,	WILLIAM BAYNTON,
GEORGE SHEPPARD,	EDWARD OLIVE,
GEORGE GEORGE,	WILLIAM ROSSITER.

These Trustees of Stafford's Charities, and the other Trustees above-mentioned, dine together on the first Meeting after Michaelmas Day; when a Glover attends with gloves, and the Vicar and each of Stafford's Trustees is entitled to choose a pair of gloves, taking towards payment for the same their share of the ten shillings given by the will.

Also the sum of ten shillings, given by Stafford, is paid towards the dinner bill; the residue of the dinner bill being paid by the Trustees themselves.

The Treasurer of Coomb's Gift is also entitled to one shilling and sixpence for gloves, and to one shilling toward his dinner, and to two shillings for a quart of wine sack, to be drunk by the Trustees.

The proceedings of the Trustees of all these Charities at their Meetings are entered in books called Order Books.

FROME.

Alms-House and Charity-School of Frome.

William Leversedge, Esq. of Vallis, in the parish of Frome, in the reign of Edward the Fourth, (a) founded an almshouse in the town of Frome, with a chapel or hall, and twelve rooms or chambers belonging to the same, the exact site of which is now unknown. This establishment he appears to have endowed with about four acres and a half of land, but this is only known by the recitals in subsequent instruments, the original deed having been long lost. (A)

In a conveyance, dated 10th May, 1644, (b) by Robert Leversedge and others to new trustees, the premises are thus described, viz. all that messuage or house called the Almshouse, situate in Frome aforesaid, then containing a hall and twelve rooms or chambers, and a chapel and two gardens thereunto adjoining, one of them lying on the north part of the same almshouse, the other on the south part of the same almshouse; and one acre of meadow lying near Gaston Stile, within the parish of Frome, and whereon a dwelling-house had then been lately erected, abutting its north end to a close of Robert Smith, and its south end to the King's highway, and its east end to the stile called Gaston Stile, and its west end to a tenement late in the tenure of Henry Whitchurch; and one acre of meadow, more or less, lying at Sharp's House, within the parish of Nunney, in the said county, abutting its south end on a water-course there in a close of one John Pickfatt, and its north end to the other land of the said John Pickfatt, in the close aforesaid, and its east part to a close then in the tenure of William Lewis, and its west part to a mear stone there lying towards Nunney aforesaid; and one acre of arable land lying in the west field of Frome aforesaid, and then inclosed in a close of one John Wilkins, and lying near to the hedge of the same close, next the highway leading from Crutchell Bridge to Nunney aforesaid, and abutting on its south side to the hedge next aforesaid, and its north-west end to a close then in the tenure of one Grace Pointing, widow, and Ralph Pointing, her son, and its east end upon the same inclosed ground of the said John Wilkins; and one other acre of arable land lying in the north field of Frome aforesaid, above Long Mead, and abutting on an acre of arable land of John Champneis, and on the south-west part on an acre of land then of the inheritance of Sir James Thynne, knight, on the east part thereof abutting towards the highway leading from Beggars Bush towards Berkley: and also, one other half acre of arable land lying near the aforesaid acre of arable land in the said north field of Frome aforesaid, abutting or near adjoining on the south part to an acre of arable land then late the inheritance of Sir John Horton, knight, and on the north part to the aforesaid acre of arable land of John Champneis, Esq. and on the east part on the inheritance of the said John Champneis, and the west part to an acre of land then in the occupation of John Dyer. (B)

In 1720, the building, which was then about a century old, being in decay, was taken down, and a more commodious structure erected in its place, affording accommodation for the old women then upon the antient establishment, augmented by some subsequent bounties, and also for a charity school then in contemplation to be set up in the parish. The north wing of this edifice is the newest part, and is occupied by 17 old women, maintained under the legacies of William Sheppard, Ann Lacy, and William Bailly; the south part is filled by 14 old women, under the ancient charities of William Leversedge, Alexander Stafford and Richard Coomb, and the centre is the school.

Alex. Stafford's
 Gift.

The earliest addition to the old alms-house charity, was made by Alexander Stafford, Esq. who, by his will dated 10th May, 1651, devised his houses, shops, tenements, and hereditaments in Bread-street and Basing-lane, to certain persons therein named, and their heirs, charging them to pay thereout an annuity of £30. to other trustees therein also named, upon trust that £28. by the year should be employed for the sole benefit and towards the perpetual relief and sustentation for ever of 14 poor women, placed and to be placed by the parishioners of Frome Selwood, in the almshouse situate near the great bridge, viz. 40s. yearly to each of them, and the remaining 40s. to be disposed of as follows: 20s. thereof to the vicar of the parish of Frome Selwood for the time being, for two sermons to be preached yearly as therein mentioned, and 10s. more of the said 40s. to be bestowed upon gloves for the said vicar and his successors, and the other trustees, at the time of making their yearly accounts, and the other 10s. residue for a dinner for the same persons at their annual audit. By an entry in an old book taken out of the parish chest, and produced to us, it appeared that an annual sum of 55s. 8d. was charged by a deed of Richard Coomb, in 1686, on two acres called Moushold, and three roods in West Overs upon King Hill, two acres of Meadow near Whatley Water, three roods of meadow in Long Mead, half an acre in Whatley, shooting upon Whatley Water, “for the use of a poor honest man, a “native of Frome, living in the almshouse, if any such man can be found;

“if not, to an honest poor woman, native of Frome; if no such poor man “or woman can be found, then to such other poor person there as shall be “most indigent or qualified as aforesaid, paid yearly at the almshouse to “the grantees, viz. 21s. 8d. at Michaelmas, 9s. more at the Feast of the “Nativity of our Lord God, 9s. more on the 25th March, and the “remainder on the 24th June, to be distributed, 9s. at Michaelmas, 9s. at “Christmas, 9s. at Lady-day, and 9s. at Midsummer, to meet next “Monday after Michaelmas; to pay to the minister 6s. 8d. to the clerk 1s.
“if there is a sermon preached at the almshouse that morning; and they
“the grantees shall pay to the treasurer, to be by them yearly chosen on “that day, for gloves 1s. 6d. 1s. for a dinner, and 2s. for a quart of wine-“sack, to be drank by the grantees on the next Monday after Michaelmas, “yearly or every year, or so many of them as shall then meet; the “remainder, 7s. 6d. to be laid out four days before Christmas in meat,
“and to be distributed among 15 poor there, as may be in the alms“house.”

Richard Coomb's
Gift.

Mention is made in the same book, that Mr. Stafford's trustees were appointed to dispose of the said Mr. Richard Coomb's gift.

Wickham's and Hippie's Gift.

By an indenture of release, dated 2nd March, 1721, grounded on a lease for a year, between William A'Court, of Frome, of the one part, and James Wickham and Jane Hippie, widow, of the other part, in consideration of £445, (£6. whereof, according to the same deed, was a gift of Mrs. Dorothy Smith, deceased, £20. more whereof was a gift of Mrs. Mary Langworth, deceased, and the residue thereof was the proper money of the said James Wickham and Jane Hippie, given equally by them for the charity and use thereafter mentioned,) the said William A'Court conveyed to James Wickham and Jane Hippie, all that close or pasture ground, commonly called Pryor's Mead, and all that close of meadow or pasture, formerly woody ground, commonly called Hilling's Grove, which said closes were lying together in the several tythings of East and West Woodlands, in the said parish of Frome, containing by estimation 32 acres, more or less, to hold to the said James Wickham and Jane Hippie, their heirs and assigns, upon trust, that the yearly rents and profits of said closes and premises might be for ever thereafter received by the trustees, nominated and appointed for the time being, for receiving the gift of £30. a-year, given to the said almshouse, and other uses, by the will of Alexander Stafford, esq. deceased, to be by them distributed to and amongst the 14 poor women for the time being, that should be living in the said almshouse, equally for their relief, as the said trustees should think fit; and it was therein expressed to be thereby intended, by the said James Wickham and Jane Hippie, that the whole yearly rents and profits of the said closes and premises thereby conveyed, should go and be paid to the said 14 poor women for the time being; and also, that the whole yearly rents and profits of other lands conveyed or to be conveyed, for the use of the charity school in Frome aforesaid, should also go and be paid for and to the use of the said charity school, free and discharged of and from all taxes, rates, and payments, for ever thereafter, provided that in case the said parish and parishioners of Frome Selwood should not from time to time pay or discharge all the rates, taxes, repairs, and payments whatsoever, that should be assessed and imposed on the said premises, and also, on all other lands that were and should be settled for the use of the said charity school from the time of such settlement, so that the whole rent and profit thereof might come clear for the uses for which the same were and should be designed, that then and from thenceforth the said closes and premises thereby conveyed, should only stand charged for the raising of the aforesaid £6. 10s. and £20. to be paid to the churchwardens of the Frome school aforesaid for the time being; and then one moiety of the aforesaid closes and premises should be and remain to and for the use of the said James Wickham, his heirs and assigns, for ever; and the other moiety should be and remain to and for the use of the said Jane Hippie, her heirs and assigns, for ever.

By an indenture, dated 18th November, 1745, two closes of meadow or pasture ground, commonly called Cole Mixon, containing nine acres, more or less, situate in Nunney, were conveyed by Joan Pickfatt and Jane Hippie to the minister and churchwardens of Frome, for the remainder of a term of 1000 years, commencing the 19th April, 1731, upon trust, that all the rents and profits of the said premises should, after the death of the said Jane Hippie, be disposed of by them amongst the poor women belonging to the almshouse of Frome upon Whit Monday, yearly, by equal shares and proportions; and by a memorandum indorsed upon the last-mentioned instrument, confining the benefit of the above gift to the 14 poor women belonging to Frome almshouse.

In the year 1748, application was made to the court of Chancery, by the vicar and several of the parishioners of Frome, praying that the said charities might be established, and the lands belonging to them respectively secured, and that such rules and orders might be prescribed for the good order and government thereof, as the Court might think fit. By the final decree of the Lord Chancellor, dated in the year 1751, a scheme, approved of by the Master, for the better regulation of the charities, was confirmed, and the rules and orders for that purpose were settled, by which rules it was amongst other things ordered, that when the number of the trustees of the almshouse, and premises thereto belonging, should be reduced to six, the surviving trustees or feoffees should, within four months after reasonable request to them, made by two sufficient men of the said parish of Frome Selwood, make a new feoffment or conveyance of the said almshouse, almshouse lands and premises, to the use of themselves and a sufficient number of the most able and sufficient men of the said parish, and their heirs, making together with themselves the number of 20 in the whole; and that the present 20 trustees which had been approved, and to whom the said almshouse and lands were conveyed, and also all other trustees for the time being, and the survivors of them, should be called trustees and governors of the said almshouse, almshouse lands and premises, according to the rules and orders thereafter mentioned.

permit and suffer, at least twelve poor people, men or women, born or to be born within the parish of Frome Selwood aforesaid, and to be nominated and appointed from time to time, as vacancies should happen, by the said trustees and governors, or the majority of them, present at any of such quarterly meetings, as thereafter appointed, to dwell and inhabit in the said messuage or almshouse in the twelve rooms, and to enjoy the rents and profits of the said almshouse lands in such shares and proportions as the trustees should think fit, and according to the order and direction of the said governors and trustees, and their survivors; and likewise to have use of the hall, chapel, and gardens thereunto belonging, for and during the natural lives of the said twelve poor people, so to be nominated and appointed as aforesaid, they demeaning themselves well, and subject nevertheless to such orders and directions and removal, as hereinafter mentioned.

That the said governors and trustees, or the majority of them, present at any such quarterly meetings as were thereafter mentioned, should from time to time, when and so often as they should think fit, elect and appoint a proper and sufficient person of their own body to be treasurer or receiver, to collect and receive the rents and profits of the said almshouse, lands and premises, and to distribute and divide the same amongst the said poor people for their relief and sustenance, and for the necessary reparations of the said almshouse and premises, according to and under the directions of the said governors and trustees, at any of their said quarterly meetings hereinafter appointed, or as the majority of them then present should direct and appoint; and that accounts be kept as therein mentioned; and that such majority should have power to make agreements for letting leases of the said almshouse lands to any tenant or tenants, for any term or terms of years not exceeding 21 years, at rack rent, without taking any thing in money or otherwise, by way of fine.

That the same twenty persons, who then were or thereafter should be the trustees and governors of the aforesaid almshouse lands and charity, should be likewise the trustees and governors of the aforesaid school-house lands and charity; and that the said school-house lands and premises should be from time to time, as occasion should require, conveyed to the same twenty persons, who should be the said almshouse trustees and their heirs, upon the following trust, (that is to say,) that the said trustees and governors, or the majority of them, present at such quarterly meeting, should elect and appoint a fit and proper person to be master of the said charity school, and so from time to time, as often as any vacancy should happen, either by the death or removal of any such master, with a reasonable salary, not exceeding £20. a-year, payable quarterly out of the rents and revenues of the said school lands and premises, to be paid by the treasurer or receiver, to be chosen and appointed by the said governors and trustees, as are hereinafter mentioned.

That the said governors and trustees, or the majority of them, present at any of such quarterly meetings, should, when and so often as they should think fit, elect and appoint a treasurer or receiver of the rents and profits of the said charity school lands.

That the said treasurer or receiver so to be appointed, should apply the rents and profits of the said lands and premises belonging to the said charity school, to pay the yearly salary to the schoolmaster, by quarterly payments as before directed, and out of the residue of the said rents and profits, should apply such sums of money towards clothing the poor boys to be placed in the said charity school, and for pens, ink, paper, and books for them, as the said governors and trustees should direct and appoint.

That the governors and trustees should meet four times in every year, upon the business of the almshouse and charity school, (that is to say,) the first Monday after Christmas, the first Monday after Lady-day, the first Monday after Midsummer-day, and the first Monday after Michaelmas-day, in the vestry room of the parish church of Frome Selwood aforesaid, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

That the said governors and trustees should have power and authority to admit as many poor boys of the said parish into the said charity school, to be clothed, and taught to read and write, and to be educated in the knowledge and practice of the Christian religion, as professed and taught in the church of England, and such other things as should be most suitable to their age and condition, in such manner and for such time, as the said governors and trustees should think fit and appoint.

That the said governors and trustees should have power to remove both the poor people belonging to the said almshouse, and the poor boys belonging to the said charity school, who should be found to have committed any great offence, and to place others in their room, as also to fill up vacancies that might happen by deaths or otherwise in the said school and almshouse; and in case the said schoolmaster should appear to be unfit and become incapable, or otherwise misdemean himself in his life or conversation, that then the said governors and trustees should have

By indentures of lease and release, dated the 5th and 6th April, 1756, the release between Zachary Baily, heir at law of Susannah Lock, widow, deceased, and Sarah Baily, (which Zachary Baily and Sarah Baily were the surviving executors and devisees of the said Susannah Lock,) of the one part, and the Rev. Lionel Seaman, vicar of Frome, and the churchwardens of Frome, of the other part, reciting that George Lock, by his will dated the 22nd of November, 1735, had, after assigning a sum for the repair of his monument, given to the said vicar and churchwardens £60. in trust, as to £40. part thereof, to be put out at interest, and to be paid to the feoffees of the almshouses in Frome, for the benefit of the 14 poor women in the same, and as to £20. residue thereof, to place the same at interest, and apply the same to the use of the charity school in Frome; that the said testator had appointed his wife, Susannah Lock, his sole executrix, and that the said Susannah Lock, by her will dated the 12th February, 1750, had devised to the vicar and churchwardens of Frome, for the time being, all her estate called Abbotts, her lands in Gaston, her acre of ground at Rodden Lake, her half acre at Little Innox, in the parish of Frome, the same to be in lieu and satisfaction of what was given and devised to them by the will of her late husband, deceased, and to be and go in his name, upon trust to receive the rents and profits, and apply the same to the uses following; i. e. 20s. a-year for keeping in repair the aisle of the parish church of Frome, called Lock's Aisle, and the remainder to the feoffees of the almshouse aforesaid, for the benefit of the poor of the said almshouse, at four equal quarterly payments, at the discretion of the said feoffees, and reciting, that the said minister and churchwardens, for themselves and the rest of the inhabitants, had agreed to accept the lands and premises so given by the said Susannah Lock, in full satisfaction of the pecuniary legacies of the said George Lock, and that they the said Zachary Baily and Sarah Baily, had agreed to confirm and assign the said lands and premises so given to the said vicar and churchwardens, by the said Susannah Lock, which said lands and premises (except the lands in Gaston, which were leasehold for years determinable with lives) were freehold of inheritance; the said parties, of the first part, released and confirmed to the said vicar and churchwardens,

In a printed book of the charities of Frome, dated 1815, it is stated, that in or about the year 1742, Mr. William Whitchurch, of Nunney, having given £100. and the late Mr. George Lock, of Frome, by his will £20. more, to the charity school; with these and some stock money, a house, garden and close of land, consisting of four acres, called Sheppard's near Feltham, were purchased of Thomas Brown, at the price of £140. for the use of the charity school.

In the same book it is further stated, that the late Mr. Daniel Rossiter, of Keyford, who died in the year 1787, gave by will to the trustees of the charity school a dwelling-house, with the out-houses and garden, where John Adlam then lived, and which he directed to be sold, and the produce to be laid out in stock, the dividends of which stock were directed to be applied, with that of Mrs. Hippie's, in placing boys of the charity school out apprentices; and that, to supersede the statute of mortmain, Mr. William Rossiter, nephew and heir at law of the testator, made a voluntary confirmation of such bequest, on being permitted to nominate a boy of the school annually to be bound apprentice. A copy of which instrument of confirmation, bearing date the 30th June, 1787, and reciting the will of Daniel Rossiter to the effect above stated, has since been produced to us.

Elizabeth Ash's
Gift.

In the year 1670, according to the same printed book, a Mrs. Elizabeth Ash, and John her son, granted to William Iveleaf, for a term of 1,000 years, a messuage or tenement, with a garden, in Goose-Street, in Beckington; and the said William Iveleaf, by an indenture bearing date the 18th November, 1674, (a copy of which has since been produced to us,) granted and assigned the same premises for the remainder of the term to trustees therein named, who were to pay one moiety of the rents and profits thereof, to be employed in providing gowns once in every three years for the 14 poor widows in the almshouses at Frome; and the other moiety of the said rents and profits thereof, to be paid to the schoolmaster or other person, who should read prayers to the said poor women in the chapel twice every week; in which lease or deed of gift there was a proviso, that if the rents and profits of the tenement should be applied to any other purpose or purposes than the foregoing, the property thereof should revert to Joseph, son of the said William Iveleaf, his executors, &c. for the remainder of the said term.

John Ash and
Mr. Iveleaf's
Gifts.

It is stated in the church tablet, that Mr. John Ash gave three tenements at Beckington to the charity school and almshouse, and that Mr. Iveleaf gave £100., to be laid out in a house in Beckington, for the use of the almshouse; and it is observable, that in the printed book above referred to, it is said that Mrs. Elizabeth Ash, and John her son, gave a messuage or tenement, with a garden, in Goose-Street, in Beckington, for 1,000 years to the almshouse, so that it would appear, that three tenements in Beckington belonging to this charity were not accounted for. But in the rental at the end of the said printed book, Thomas West is stated to be the tenant (at that time) of Mrs. Ash's tenements at Beckington; and upon inquiry it appeared, that the present tenant, Mr. Thomas West, actually holds what did consist of four tenements at Beckington, but one of the four has been thrown into one of the others, so that at present he holds only three. Neither the conveyance of Iveleaf's tenement, nor of Mrs. Ash's three tenements, could be found.

According to a plan made in 1762, of the lands belonging to Frome charity school and almshouse, the lands which came originally to the almshouse from William Leversedge, as they are described in the ancient deeds, appear to be answered by—

One acre of meadow near Gaston, with four tenements upon it, let to Thomas West.

Half an acre of meadow in Sharpshaw farm, in the parish of Nunney.

One acre of arable, being part of 14 acres in the possession of Mr. Joseph Cook, for which acre he pays rent to the trustees.

One acre of pasture, at Old Ford Hill.

One acre of arable, lying between land of the Marquis of Bath, and land of the Vicar of Frome.

By the book kept by Mr. Wickham, as receiver of the rents, it appears that the acre in Gaston is let to Thomas West, for the term of 21 years from Lady-day 1809, at the net rent of £21. per annum; the rent reserved on the lease immediately preceding, and which was for 10 years, having been £9.

The half-acre at Sharpshaw is let for £1. 1s. per annum, and in the opinion of the witness, the above premises are respectively let at their full value

With respect to the acre of land let to Mr. Joseph Cook, it appears that the trustees, not being able to ascertain exactly the identity of this land amongst the 14 acres of which it forms a part, and disputes having arisen respecting it, it was agreed between the trustees and a Mr. Bradley, who was then the owner of the remainder of the 14 acres, that a perpetual quit-rent of 9s. should be paid for it to the trustees

The acre of pasture at Old Ford Hill, is let to David Williams, by lease in 1808, for 14 years, from the 25th March 1809, at the yearly rent of.....

The acre of land, between the land of the Marquis of Bath and the Vicar of Frome, is let to Stephen Moody, as tenant from year to year, at the rent of.... —which has been paid for 14 years.

The last two acres are stated to have been let according to a valuation of them by two land surveyors named to us.

The annual sum of £30., left by the will of Alexander Stafford, is regularly paid

Thomas West, the tenant of the premises which came from Mrs Ash and her son, holds the same from year to year, at a net rent of —the same being stated to us to be the full rent in the judgment of the witness, the surveyor, by whom it was valued. The former letting was for £6. 10s.

Instead of the rent-charge of 55s. 8d. under the deed of gift of Richard Coombs, the present occupier of the land, Mr. Edmund Ashby, pays £3. 10s. per annum to the trustees, by agreement

According to an old book found in the parish chest, the lands originally bound to the payment of this annuity were two acres, called Moushold; three roods at Westovers, upon King Hill; two acres of meadow near Whatley Water; three roods of meadow in Long Meadow, and one-half an acre in Whatley, shooting upon Whatley Water; but the only land of which there is now any knowledge, as being subject to this rent, is the two acres of meadow land near Whatley Water, the other parts of the property being no longer traceable.

The property purchased from William A'Court, by James Wickham and Jane Hippie, and settled by them upon the almshouse, is stated now to consist of three closes of meadow or pasture ground; one of 11 A. & 18 P. another of 8 A. 2 R. 7 P. and a third of 7 A. & 24 P. in all 26 A. 3 R. 9 P. lying together, being less by four acres than the quantity mentioned in the conveyance, which was 32; but as the old description was by estimation, and the new by statute measure, the difference may in this way be accounted for; they were let to James Butler, for seven years, by their old description of Phelps Priors Mead and Hillings Grove, at the rent of £45., and in the lease to him they were called 32 acres, according to the old nominal measure. That lease is now just expired, and they are under agreement to be let to Joseph Pope, according to their real measurement for seven years, from Lady-day 1818, at the advanced rent of £70., which, in the judgment of the witness, a surveyor, is the full rent

The trustees of the almshouses are in possession of a parcel of pasture land, at Colemanixon, in the parish of Nunney, which amounts to about nine acres, and appears to answer to the nine acres of land assigned to the vicar and churchwardens by Mrs. Hippie. This land is in the occupation of William Horton, as yearly tenant, at the net rent of £14. per annum. This land has not been valued, but, according to the evidence, it is not rich land, and £14. is an adequate rent, clear of taxes

14 — —

The premises substituted by the will of Susannah Lock, for the legacies given by George Lock, her husband, consist of a tenement and garden, and two closes of pasture land in the north field, now called Frome Field, containing not quite four acres, but very little less. This is called Abbotts, and is on lease to Henry Sheppard, and in the occupation of Thomas Harmer Sheppard. The lease is dated 29th September, 1808, and is for fourteen years, from the 25th March, 1808, at a rent of £13.

Also, an acre of pasture land, near Rodden lake, now in the occupation of John Olive, as yearly tenant, at the rent of £1. 5s.; this is only a nominal acre, being really only 3 R. 5 P.

Also, half an acre of pasture land, at Little Imnox, in the occupation of Elizabeth Vincent and Captain O'Connor, as yearly tenants, at the rent of £2. 2s.

These rents are paid by the tenants to the churchwardens, and by them to the trustees of the Almshouse Charity.

There is a slight difference between the present quantity and the quantity mentioned in the deed of 1756, which is explained by the difference between estimated and statute measure; the two acres lying in the north field of Frome, purchased in 1773 of Ann King and Sarah Birch, are now in the occupation of Abraham Croker, as yearly tenant, at the rent of £3. 10s. per annum

The twenty shillings charged on a tenement in Nunney, called Railes, and given by John A'Court, of Rodden, is paid by the owner of the land to the old women in the almshouse

The freehold estate of Buckland and Elm, which came to the trustees under the will of William Bailey, was measured three or four years ago, and the survey was produced, by which it appears, that though the property has varied in names and descriptions, it is the same in quantity. This land is let to one John Weaver, of Buckland, as yearly tenant, at the rent of £34. per ann.
 —and a cottage, part of the estate, is let to Thomas Greenland, as yearly tenant, at the rent of £3.

The land about this place is stated to be poor; and, according to the evidence of a surveyor, who was examined to the point, it is a fair rent.

The actual extent of the estate called Shear Marsh, which was purchased in 1728 out of the school fund, from James Wickham, is $28\frac{1}{2}$ acres; and that of Joel's, purchased out of the same fund at the same time, $29\frac{3}{4}$ acres. The difference between this quantity and that of 63 acres, which is mentioned in the purchase deed, is explained by referring it to the different modes of admeasurement, by estimation and by statute. This estate was let by lease, dated 31st March 1794, for a term of 13 years, at a rent of £71.; that lease expired in 1808, when a new lease, dated 29th September 1808, was made to William Allard, the same tenant, for 14 years, at a rent of £110. per annum, which last letting was upon a valuation by a surveyor. It is arable and pasture, and three or four miles from Frome . . .

The house, garden and close of land, called Sheppards, near Feltham, described as consisting of four acres, and to have been purchased by Thomas Brown, for the use of the charity school, consist only, according to the plan, of 3 A. 3 R. 3 P.; but it lies within an old boundary, and no alteration appears to have taken place. According to the almshouse book, it was let in 1775 for £6., and so it continued till Lady-day 1802, when it was raised to £8., which continued to 1808, and then a lease was granted to George King, dated 29th September 1808, for 21 years, from the preceding Lady-day, at the rent of £15.; the present occupier is George Jones . . .

The whole cost of re-erecting the almshouse building in 1720, by the voluntary subscription of the parishioners, was £1,401. 8s. 9d. as appears from the almshouse book of 1728, where there is a bill of the particulars. In 1728, the centre part of this building came to be used as a charity school, which in that year was established by a school fund raised by the contributions of the inhabitants. The south wing is now used for the old women upon Stafford's foundation (properly Leversedge's); and it may be observed, that after Stafford's donation, 14 old women, instead of the original 12, were maintained on that side. The north side, until of late years, was occupied by some parish paupers; but since the gifts of Sheppard, Lacy and Bailey, the same poor women who were maintained there before, with some addition to their number, have been supported by these donations.

The total amount of the rent and produce of the land belonging to the almshouse, is £205. 8s. composed as follows:—

The property of the almshouse, of a personal nature, is as follows:—

There is one-third of an hundred pounds, and one-sixth of £200. three per cent. consols, producing £2. per annum, purchased out of surplus money in the hands of the trustees, and which is the share of the almshouse in such surplus stock. It is proper to be noticed, that in addition to the benefactions above mentioned, there is a small donation of 5s. to each of the 14 poor women of the south side of the almshouse, on every St. Thomas's day, which is part of a sum of £16., received from the executors of John Hooper, the lessee of land belonging to the parish of Frome, the remainder of which is paid to the poor of the parish. The property out of which this is derived, appears to have been a gift of Thomas Smith, by his deed dated 21st of May 1678, and to be now vested in the minister and churchwardens. The land consists of 14 A. 3 R. 6 P. and is situated at Critchills, in the parish of Frome.

The surviving trustees, regularly constituted under the decree, in the year 1811, being of opinion that it would be for the advantage of the charities to increase the number of trustees, but not thinking themselves empowered so to do under the decree or the wills of the donors, by way of effecting their object as far as they safely could, elected 10 gentlemen of the town, of the established church, to act with them, who are called assistant trustees; six out of the number of the regular trustees, are appointed trustees and treasurers of Stafford's charity and Coomb's gift.

This income of £391. 8s. is thus expended on the almshouse part of the charity. And first, as to the south side of the almshouse.

The above statement was confirmed by the general treasurer's book, except as to Stafford's and Coomb's gifts, and the sums received personally by the almswomen. The book kept by the trustees of Stafford's gift, and the book of Mr. John Olive, the present annual treasurer of Coomb's gift, verified the expenditure as to those funds respectively. There is no balance substantially in the hands of the general treasurer, as at Michaelmas 1817, there was a balance due to him of £131. 16s. 4d. as appears by the accounts of that year. The items that turned the accounts against the charity, were several bills for work done upon the premises, amounting together to £95. 3s. 11d. There were also some extra disbursements in 1816, as appear by the accounts of that year.

The monies payable immediately to the almswomen themselves, were satisfactorily proved to be regularly paid, viz. 20s. rent of land in Nunney; £14. from lands near Whatley Water; £3. 10s. from lands in the North field.

THE CHARITY SCHOOL.

The income of the charity school arising from land, is as follows:—

By an indenture dated 30th September 1776, between Samuel Whitchurch, of the one part, and John Ross, D.D. vicar of Frome, and 18 other trustees of the charity school at Frome, of the other part; reciting, that by indenture, dated 25th March 1752, Jane Hippie granted £200. to be invested in the purchase of lands of inheritance in the parish of Frome, to be conveyed to the trustees of the charity school, for them to apply the rents and profits towards placing out and apprenticing one of the most deserving boys of the said charity school, unto such trade as they should think proper, and in the mean time until such purchase, to be placed out in good securities, the interest thereof to be paid as above directed; and that by the same indenture, the said Jane Hippie, granted to the said Samuel Whitchurch, another £200. upon trust, within three months after a new church should be begun to be built in Frome, to pay the said last-mentioned sum and the interest to the vicar and churchwardens, to the intent, that they should apply the same towards the building of such new church, provided, that if such new church should not be begun within seven years after her decease, then that such sum and interest should be applied to such charitable purposes for the benefit of the parish of Frome, as the said Samuel Whitchurch and vicar of Frome should think proper; and reciting, that the first-mentioned sum of £200. had not been laid out in the purchase of any lands, but that the same, together with the said last-mentioned sum of £200., and also £42. 10s. part of the interest of such last-mentioned sum, had been invested in the purchase of £500. three per cent consols by the said Samuel Whitchurch; and that the said Samuel Whitchurch had, from time to time, applied the interest of the said first-mentioned £200., in placing out and apprenticing the most worthy boys of the said charity school; and no such church having begun to be erected within seven years after the decease of the said Jane Hippie, he had also paid great part of the interest of the said last-mentioned £200. in apprenticing such boys as aforesaid; and that the said Samuel Whitchurch, being desirous of being eased of the trust, had proposed to pay to the said trustees the balance in his hands, and also to transfer to them the sum of £500. consols; and that he was also desirous, that as no such church had begun to be erected, the said last-mentioned sum of £200. and interest, should be paid and applied towards such apprenticing as aforesaid, as had been directed by the said deed, touching the said sum of £200., which the said trustees had approved of; and that the said trustees did thereby acknowledge the receipt of the said balance, and that they had received from the said Thomas Whitchurch, a power of attorney for the transfer of the said £500., which it was intended should be assigned to John Stevens, one of the trustees in trust for the purposes aforesaid; the said trustees did thereby declare and agree, that the said last-mentioned sum of £200., which had been intended to be applied towards the building of such new church, as well as the said first-mentioned £200., should be laid out and invested in the purchase of lands of inheritance within the parish of Frome, to be conveyed to the use of the said trustees upon trust, that they and their heirs should yearly pay and apply the clear rents and profits of the said lands towards apprenticing two of the most deserving boys of the said charity school, and that until such purchase should be paid, it should be lawful for the said trustees to continue the said last-mentioned £200. upon land or other good securities; and it was thereby declared and agreed, that in case any poor boy of the said parish, whether belonging to the said school or not, or any poor girl of the said parish related to the said Jane Hippie, should at any time apply for the said benefaction, such boy or girl should have the preference.

This sum of £500. consols has remained unaltered. It appears by the treasurer's book of accounts, that there was a general settlement between the trustees and Mr. Whitchurch, in October 1777, from which period £15. per annum, the dividend of the said £500., has been regularly received and brought to account. That stock is now standing in the names of Joseph Frowd, James Anthony Wickham, and George Sheppard. (G)

It appears from the said book, that the trustees having in their hands in the year 1763 £100. surplus money, purchased therewith a deed poll in the Frome turnpike trust, now bearing an interest of £5. per cent. The deed poll was produced, dated 1777. The interest has been regularly paid, being a varying amount of £4. and £5. per cent. (G)

In March 1766, Stephen Symes, who was then master of the charity school, gave the sum £100. for the benefit of that charity, for which sum the trustees made themselves accountable by adding the same to the common stock. This benefaction is also stated upon the church tablet.

The charity school is also entitled to two-thirds of £100. in the three per cent consols, and 5-6ths of £200. in the same stock, as its share of what has at different times been purchased by the trustees out of the

It appears by the same book, that the first dividend received by the charity school for its share of such stock was in 1766, and it is regularly accounted for from that period; the annual produce is £7. (G)

By the same treasurer's book, it also appears, that in March 1789, the premises devised by the will of Daniel Rossiter, as aforesaid, were sold for £140.; and that in April, in that year, £200. three per cent consols were purchased with that money, and £10. 10s. added to it from the general stock, producing a dividend of £6. per annum. Richard Stevens, by his will dated 9th October 1790, (I) for the more frequent performance of divine service, according to the liturgy of the church of England, as by law established in the several churches and chapels of this kingdom, gave to the trustees and treasurer for the time being of the charity school at Frome, £2,400. three per cent reduced annuities, part of a larger sum standing in his name, and he directed his executor to transfer the said £2,400. into the names of the trustees and treasurer for the time being of the said charity school, in trust, to receive the interest and dividends thereof, and pay and apply the same in manner following, viz. That they should yearly, during the life of the vicar for the time being, out of such dividends, pay to him and his successor, the clear sum of £52. for his and their own use and benefit, upon condition, that he should between the hours of six and nine in the evening of every Sunday throughout the year, read the evening service in the said church, and afterwards preach a lecture to the congregation, and that on his neglect so to do, he should forfeit 20s. and for four successive omissions all benefit of the salary from the preceding half yearly payment; which forfeitures were to be applied for the benefit of the said charity, and another lecturer to be appointed in his place. And after providing for an annual payment of £10. to the clerk, with a condition, that in case of his neglect of duty, the trustees might deduct 2s. 6d. for the benefit of the said charity, for every such neglect, he further directed, that the trustees and treasurer of the said charity school, should pay the remainder of the yearly interest and dividends, being the sum of £10. to the organist for the time being of that if any doubt should arise between the vicar and the trustees and treasurer for the time being, relative to his suspension for neglect of duty, such differences should be submitted to the Bishop of Bath and Wells, whose directions in the matter should be conclusive to the parties : And reciting, that there was not in the parish church of Frome any regular choir, or any foundation for singing the psalms and hymns, set forth and allowed to be sung in all the churches and chapels before and after morning and evening prayer, and also before and after sermons, but that several of the parishioners and others residing in the said parish had associated together, and had hitherto, as in the nature of a choir, united in singing in the said parish church, at the time of divine service, the hymns and psalms so allowed and appointed to be sung ; but that if some fund or establishment were made for the use of the parishioners and inhabitants of the said parish, who had so associated and united, and a recompence given to a master to instruct them therein, it might be the means of a regular choir being formed and continued for the praise and glory of God, he gave and bequeathed to the vicar and two churchwardens of the parish of Frome, for the time being, the sum of £500. three per cent reduced annuities, part of a larger sum standing in his name, and desired that his executor might transfer the same into their names, upon trust, that they should nominate such singing-master, who should attend every week, on such day as should be most convenient to the major part of such choir in the said parish church, to instruct them in singing such tunes as the psalms and hymns so appointed to be sung in churches and chapels have been, or may be set to; and as a reward for such instruction, and an encouragement to the choir to perfect themselves in vocal church music, upon trust, every year to pay and apply the whole of such interest and dividends, in manner following; £5. or such greater part as the said trustees or the majority should think proper, to the master, and the remainder to the said choir, in such shares as said trustees, or the majority, should think proper.

A provision was then added for the removal of such singing-master for his non-attendance, incapacity or incompetency, by the trustees, and for another to be appointed in his place.

It was further provided, that on the death of any trustee the vacancy should be filled up, if of the vicar, by the next succeeding vicar ; and if of any other trustee, by one of the churchwardens for the time being, so that there should always be five trustees of the said stock to whom the same should be transferred.

The testator also gave and bequeathed to the vicar and to the trustees and treasurer for the time being of the charity-school, £300. three per cent reduced annuities, part of a much larger sum, standing in his name, in trust, that they should every year pay and apply the interest and dividends thereof as follows, viz. that the trustees, or the major part of them present, at their first quarterly meeting, should elect two boys not under the age of eight years, the children of the inhabitants of Frome aforesaid, to be added to the number of boys on the present or any future establishment of the said school, such two boys to be clothed and dressed in the like uniform as the other boys; and he directed, that out of the dividends and interest of the said £300. reduced annuities, the yearly sum of £1. 3s. 6d. should be paid for the clothing of each of the said two boys, and the yearly sum of 20s. to the head master of the said school, for teaching and instructing and finding books and stationery for them; and if the boys should misbehave, or not conform to the rules of the school, that the trustees, or the majority, should remove both or either of them, and elect another or others in their place; and his will was, that the said two boys should continue in the school for the term of five years, to be then put out and bound apprentice to tradesmen of good character not being the parents of such boys; and he directed his trustees out of the said dividends and interest, to pay to each of the masters of the said boys on their being so bound, £7. 10s. and to find and provide for each of the said boys on their being so put out, a good and plain suit of clothes, of such colour as they should think proper, not exceeding the value of £2. 10s. each, as a reward for their good behaviour; and that the places of the boys so put out should be filled up by other two boys; to be chosen, clothed, and educated, subject to such rules as aforesaid; and that the said trustees should cause a distinct account to be kept in the books of the said charity, as well of the names and ages of the two boys so to be elected, and of their parents' business and residence, as of the interest, dividends and proceeds of the said annuities, and of the application thereof; which account was to be open for the inspection of any of the trustees or inhabitants of the said parish who should desire the same, and should be examined and audited at the next quarterly meeting after Michaelmas in every year. A provision was added, that if the trustees should neglect to cause such account to be kept, examined and audited as aforesaid, or should omit to elect and continue two boys under the description aforesaid to be added to and rated upon the present or any future establishment of the said school, that upon every such neglect or omission, the yearly payments before directed for the clothing of the boys and to the master, should be paid to the resident vicar of the parish of Frome for the time being: And the testator then directed, that a sterling silver pen, not less in value than 10s. 6d. or more than 13s. should be given by the trustees at their first meeting after St. Thomas's day, to the boy that should write the best plain round hand, and the year following a pen of like value to the boy who should appear to be the best arithmetician and accountant; which gift was to be continued alternately to such boys every year.

The testator, by a fourth codicil, dated 13th November 1792, directed his executor, that in lieu of the said sum of £2,400. three per cent reduced annuities, he should transfer to the said trustees, £1,800. four per cent bank annuities on the like trusts, and that in lieu of the said £500. three per cent reduced annuities, he should transfer to the trustees £375. four per cent bank annuities, and in like manner, instead of such sum of £300. three per cent reduced annuities, he should transfer to the trustees of such stock the sum of £225. four per cent bank annuities, upon the like terms and trusts as were created by the said will respecting such sum. The testator, by a sixth codicil, dated 14th July 1794, directed that the singers stock of £375. four per cents should be reduced to £250. four per cents, and that the said charity school stock should be transferred in three months after his decease, instead of four. (G)

This stock of £225. four per cents is now standing in the name of Mr. James Anthony Wickham, as the surviving trustee, the annual dividend of which is £9. It has been regularly received and applied since the testator's death, which happened in May 1796. (G)

£48 — —

Under the will of Mr. William Barton, as above stated, the sum of £1,600., applicable to the charity school, now stands in the names of trustees, producing an annual dividend of £48. The first receipt of a dividend upon this stock was in 1805, and it has been ever since regularly received and applied. (G)

John Stevens's

The sum of £1,500. in the four per cents was bequeathed by John Stevens, by his will dated 5th April 1809, to the trustees of the charity school, for the clothing and educating 10 boys, born of parishioners, and baptized in the parish church, not under the age of seven, nor exceeding the age of nine years, to be added to the number already on the foundation of the said school, which 10 boys were to be clothed in the same way as the boys on the public foundation, except that the tassels and bands of the caps were to be white: And the testator directed, that after being five years at the school, such boys should be placed out apprentices to industrious tradesmen for the term of seven years, to such trades as the trustees should think fit, the apprentice fees to be £7., and for each of these 10 boys the master was to be paid out of the interest of the said stock the yearly sum of £1. 4s. as his recompence for instructing them in the same manner as the other boys, and providing them with books and stationery; and the testator gave full powers to the trustees of removing the boys for misbehaviour, and of supplying their places, as also of filling up vacancies in their own body by a fresh election by the surviving or continuing trustees, and added special directions as to the keeping, entering and auditing of the accounts, as also the entering of the names of the boys admitted, removed and placed out, and of the masters of the several apprentices. If by deaths or removals, or defect of applications for admissions, there should at any time be a surplus above what was sufficient to answer the specific purposes of this charity, as above stated, the trustees were to be at liberty to dispose thereof for the general purposes of the charity school, or such part or parts of the same, as they should think proper. (K)

The said sum of £1,500. stands in the names of John Olive, James Anthony Wickham, Joseph Frowd, and Timothy Lacy, and produces an annual dividend of £60. (G)

The different sums which have been above enumerated, make together a total of £150., which, added to the produce of the real estate, makes the whole income, real and personal, applicable to the charity school, £275. (L)

The whole number of boys in the charity school is 37, out of which 10 are to be considered as on the foundation of John Stevens, and two on that of Richard Stevens; originally there were 20 only, five were added about 20 years ago, when the rents were increased. The above sum of £298. 17s. 5d. exceeds the income of the school by £23. 17s. 5d.; but it is observable that for several years preceding the last, the balances had been increasing in favour of the charity; upon the strength of which the trustees increased the amount of the apprentice fees, and they have lately invested the sum of £130. upon a mortgage of three houses in Frome, by a deed dated 8th February 1819, whereby John Curtis, the mortgagee and his trustee, conveyed the premises to James Anthony Wickham for a term of 500 years, Mr. Wickham by a deed of the same date declaring the trust of the same for the charity school. Notwithstanding the excess in the expenditure of the last year, there is still a balance in the hands of the trustees of £184. 15s. 6½d.

The £130. so laid out on mortgage will of course, while that security remains, be brought to account as a part of the permanent income of the charity, the income on which is £6. 10s.

The books of accounts were produced, affording a satisfactory exposition of the receipts and disbursements relating both to the almshouse and charity-school. The almshouse women and the charity boys are appointed by the trustees at their quarterly meetings, previously to which public notice is given in the parish church of the day of election, as well of the women as of the boys, in which it is expressly declared, that the parents of the children must be of the parish, and of the established religion, and that the boys must have been baptized in the church of England. The women are also required to be members of the established church. It nevertheless appears, from the statement of the present master, that this rule of exclusion has not been invariably enforced against the dissenters from our national church ; but that when the sons of dissenters have been admitted, (and there appear to be some such at present in the school,) they have attended the service of the church of England during their stay at the school. Prayers are read in the school twice a week by the master, at which the women and the boys are alike expected to attend.

The boys are taught reading, writing and arithmetic. They are examined by the vicar on admission, and are expected to have made a beginning in reading before they come.

The master receives some verbal instructions from the trustees on his appointment, but there are no written rules or orders for the government of the school. In apprenticing the boys, the preference is given to the masters who are members of the church of England, and the form of the indenture of apprenticeship, contains in all cases a stipulation, that the master shall see that his apprentice attends divine service according to the church of England twice every Sunday during the term of his apprenticeship, unless prevented by sickness, though the wills of neither of the Stevens's contain any directions to this effect. The trustees appear to consider, that as the children are supposed to have been educated according to the worship of the church of England, they should continue in that communion while receiving the benefit of the charity as apprentices. The funds of the Stevens's have been barely sufficient for the clothing and educating of the boys upon those respective foundations. The expense of apprenticing has been defrayed out of the apprentice stock, arising from Hippie's, Rossiter's and Barton's charities, and the apprenticing has been general out of the whole 37 boys. All whose parents have been desirous of their being apprenticed have been put out, if deserving, and opportunities have occurred ; but the balances in favour of the charity have arisen principally out of the apprentice stock, there not being always opportunities of apprenticing out the boys to proper masters.

The vicar of the parish entitles himself to the annual sum of £52. out of the dividends of the £2,400. three per cents, under the will of Richard Stevens, by performing or causing to be performed the stipulated duty, and he duly receives the yearly stipend accordingly. The clerk also, and the organist, are paid the respective sums of £10. yearly under the same will. It appears also, satisfactorily, that the objects of the same testator are answered with respect to the choir in the church, and the money consigned to that purpose is duly applied.

THE FREE GRAMMAR SCHOOL. (M)

Free Grammar School.

Of this school there exists no foundation deed, or other ancient documents, the only written evidences concerning it being the minutes of vestry orders for furniture, as desks for the boys, shelves for the library, benches and other conveniences, and for occasional appointments of new masters. The school, according to the tradition of the place, was founded in the reign of Edward the 6th. The annual sum of £6. has been immemorially paid out of the treasury, and seems to have been a part of the endowment of the school, coeval with its foundation.

It is the general understanding of the old people of the parish, that certain estates in the neighbourhood were charged with annual payments towards the support of this charity, in respect of which the owners of such lands were entitled to send each a boy to be educated at the school; but of this we could discover no distinct or certain traces.

From a part of the evidence before us, there is ground for supposing some lands called Flintford Farm, at Roddon, the property of the Rev. J. M. Rogers, rector of Berkley, and a farm at Truddoxhill, in the possession of — King, a farmer, to be two of the estates so charged. There is also some memory in the parish, of a payment made to the school from Bollow Farm, in the East Woodlands of Frome, but the charity has had no benefit from any of these supposed charges for many years.

The school premises, consisting of one large room and an anti room, formerly a court, first covered in 1798, are situate in Vicarage-street, in Frome. There is no house belonging to the school. It is properly a grammar school, but for many years there does not appear to have been any scholar on the foundation. The master has private scholars, and declares himself ready to take the children of those who are legally authorised to send them, when his obligations in this respect shall be ascertained; but in the oblivion into which every particular respecting this school has fallen, there seems but little hope of replacing it on its original foundation.

Mr. King, of Truddoxhill, has admitted that he has made payments to the former master; and the parish officers have declared to us their intention, to make every possible inquiry to discover the lands liable to contribute any thing for the benefit of this school, and to make the best arrangements in their power for restoring the establishment.

There are many respectable persons yet living, who have received their education at this school; and according to the testimony of some of the inhabitants, there was, within their memory, a library attached to it, containing some valuable old books. Neither these books, nor two eighteen-inch globes, formerly there, are now upon the spot, nor is it clearly known what is become of them, except that it is surmised, that some part of the books, if not all, were sold at the auction of one Pocock (Z) (a former master,) after his death, together with his general property. It does not seem to be certainly known, whether the globes were the private property of the master, or belonged to the school.

THOMAS JESSER'S BEQUEST.

Thomas Jesser, by his will dated 7th December 1728, gave to the poor of Frome Selwood £100., to be laid out in a piece of land, as opportunity permitted, and directed the profits thereof to be disposed of every St. Thomas's day, for ever, among such poor people as had no relief from the parish, at the discretion of the minister and churchwardens.

Thomas Jesser's
Bequest.

It does not appear distinctly when this money was received, nor in what manner it was laid out; but there is a sum of £129. 18s. three per cent consolidated bank annuities, part of a larger sum of stock, standing in the names of Joseph Froud, James Anthony Wickham, and George Sheppard, as trustees; which is understood to arise from the above legacy of Thomas Jesser.

Mr. Wickham receives the dividends on this sum of £129. 18s. stock, and pays them to the churchwardens of the parish, who regularly distribute the whole amount on St. Thomas's day yearly, in small sums, among such poor people as have no relief from the parish. (G) lands at Flintford, to the poor of the parish of Frome, for ever. The land is now called Freeze Farm, adjoining Flintford, in the parish of Frome, and now belonging to William Sheppard, esq. of Frome.

The £2. 10s. is regularly paid by the owner of the land to the churchwardens, and distributed in small sums among the poor, at the discretion of the vicar and parish officers.

No document could be produced to shew when or how this rent-charge was created.

JANE METHWIN'S GIFT.

Jane Methwin's
Gift.

Mrs. Jane Methwin, by deed dated 18th January 1640, granted to Francis Methwin and Anthony Methwin, their heirs and assigns, a messuage or tenement, garden and garden ground, with their appurtenances, situate in Radcliffe-street, Bristol, which are now the property of Mr. Bird Thomas, of Bristol, to certain uses therein mentioned, charged with the payment of 10s. yearly, to a preacher, for preaching a sermon in the forenoon of every Good Friday, in Frome church, and with 10s. for buying 20 sixpenny loaves, to be distributed to 10 poor men and 10 poor widows, of Frome parish, every Good Friday, after the sermon.

These sums continue to be received from the owner of the premises or his tenant, by the churchwardens of Frome, not regularly, but as opportunities occur, to save the expense of the journey, and are applied according to the directions of the deed of gift.

ANN LACY'S BEQUEST.

Ann Lacy's
Bequest.

Mrs. Ann Lacy, by her will dated the 14th of July 1807, gave to the churchwardens of Frome Selwood £200., three per cent consols, upon trust, to apply the interest in such manner as the churchwardens in their discretion should think proper, for the use and benefit of the poor inhabitants parishioners of the town of Frome Selwood, and directed that the same should be applied for that purpose, on St. Thomas's day, for ever.

The £200. stock was transferred by the executors of Mrs. Lacy, into the names of John West and Thomas Chester, the then churchwardens of Frome, and is now standing in their names. (G)

The dividends are regularly received by the churchwardens, and distributed by them according to the directions of the testatrix's will.

No account could be collected from the parish officers, or the books of the parish. of the receipt or application of any of the above sums, except that it appears, that the parish are in possession of two closes, or pieces of land, situate near Sharpshaw, containing together 14 acres, which are let upon lease for 21 years, to John Hooper, and are now in the occupation of Charles Hiscox, at a rent of £16. per annum. This rent is received yearly, and distributed by the churchwardens among the poor of the parish. It is believed (and appears very probable) that all, or the greater part of the above gifts, were laid out in the purchase of these lands; but when this purchase was made, or what was the consideration money given, cannot be traced.

 FOR TWENTY OLD MEN.

members of the church of England, the principal sum of £12,000, 4 per cent bank annuities, part of a larger sum then standing in his name, in the books of the governor and company of the Bank of England, upon trust, that they should lay out and expend a sum, not exceeding £1,500., of the principal sum of £12,000, trust stock, as well in the purchase of an estate of inheritance in fee simple, of and in one or more messuages, adjoining each other, to be situate within the said parish of Frome, with proper and convenient apartments, offices and ground thereto belonging, extensive enough, and capable of being enlarged and made convenient for lodging forty at least of such poor female children, and of such greater number as might, by and on the occasions thereafter mentioned, be elected on the foundation of the intended charity, and of lodging a matron or governess, and a sufficient number of servants to conduct, manage, superintend, direct, take care of, wait upon, and attend such poor female children; but if the said trustees should not be able to purchase such house or houses and premises, situate as aforesaid, then the said testator directed such trustees to buy and purchase, in fee simple, a proper and convenient piece of ground, to be situate in the said parish, the scite whereof should be of sufficient extent to answer the purposes hereinafter mentioned: And that his said trustees should cause a good and substantial brick building, with proper apartments and offices, to be erected on such part of the ground as his said trustees should approve of, large and extensive enough to receive and lodge such number and increased number of children, a matron or governess, and servants, as before-mentioned; and that his said trustees should lay out and expend a sum not exceeding £1,500. of the said principal sum of £12,000., in purchasing such ground, and building such house, apartments and offices, as aforesaid; and, immediately after such house should be finished, he directed his said trustees to lay out and expend a further sum, not exceeding £500. of the said principal sum of £12,000. in the purchase of furniture, suitable for such an establishment and charity; but if the said two several sums of £1,500. and £500. should not be found sufficient to answer the purposes aforesaid, then he directed his said trustees to apply so much of the interest of such trust stock, as aforesaid, as should be sufficient to make up such two sums of £1,500 and £500., so that the sum of £10,000 stock, the remainder of the said principal sum of £12,000., should never be diminished; and he further directed, that as soon as the necessary rules, orders and regulations, should be framed by his trustees, that the same should be submitted to the Bishop of Bath and

Wells, for the time being, for his alteration, correction and approbation; and so from time to time, when any new rules or alterations should be thought necessary : And the said testator ordered and directed, that the said rector, treasurer and trustees, should have four quarterly meetings in every year, on the business of the intended charity, at the several times to be fixed by themselves; and that at the next quarterly meeting to be had after the house was finished, they the said trustees, should proceed to the election of forty poor female children from, at, or about the age of 7 years, to, at, or about the age of 10 years, born of poor inhabitants of the said parish of Frome; and should also proceed to the election of a proper matron or governess, being an inhabitant of the said parish, and a widow or single woman, at such yearly wages or salary as his said trustees should think proper, and that public notice should be given and published three successive Sundays previous to such elections, in the parish church of Frome, immediately after morning service, and printed notices thereof be pasted or fixed up on the most conspicuous places in the said parish; and the said testator directed his said trustees, to cause a plain uniform to be made for such children so to be elected, of such quality and colour as his said trustees should think proper : And the testator directed, that immediately after the death of any bishop, to whom, with the before-described trustees, such stock should be transferred as aforesaid, the surviving trustees should transfer such stock into the name of the succeeding bishop, and into the names of such surviving trustees if the transfer books of such stock should then be open, and if not, so soon as they should be open : And the said testator directed, that the children to be elected should continue on the establishment until they attained the respective ages of 14 years, or such longer term as his trustees should think proper, unless they should be previously put out apprentices to any trades or businesses, they might be found and deemed capable of, or placed out as servants in tradesmen's or other families; and in the former case, he directed a sum not exceeding £5. to be given as an apprentice fee with each of such children who might be so put out apprentices; and in the latter case, that each of such children to be so placed out, should, on their quitting the asylum, be provided with a gown and necessities to the amount of, but not to exceed, 40s.; and that the clothes and articles worn by the children in the asylum, should be given them on their leaving the same : And he directed, that at the next quarterly meeting to be had of the said trustees, next after any such child or children should be so put out or placed out apprentice or apprentices, servant or servants, or should happen to die or be removed from the establishment, the said trustees should proceed to elect and choose one or more child or children of such description as aforesaid, to fill up the vacancy or vacancies which, in such events as aforesaid, might happen, and that notice of such election, and the number of such children to be elected, should be given in the parish church of Frome, immediately after the morning service, on every Sunday, between the times of the events happening and the time of the election, and that the like printed notices be pasted or fixed up at the most conspicuous places in the parish, so that the poor inhabitants thereof might be fully apprized of the time of election, and then have an opportunity of presenting their children, and that this mode of election should be continued as such events should happen, from time to time, for ever: And the said testator directed, that if it should happen, that any of the said children should, at any time during their continuance upon the foundation, of the said charity, be afflicted with any illness or distemper, that they should receive and be furnished with proper advice, medicine and attendance, [at the expense of the said charity; and if any child or children should happen to die during the time before-mentioned, that such child or children should be properly and decently buried, at the expense of the said charity, in the church-yard of the said parish of Frome: And the said testator directed, that the treasurer for the time being should, by or before the 20th day of December, in every year, for ever thereafter, make out an account, and lay the same before the said trustees, at their then next quarterly meeting to be had at or before Christmas, as aforesaid, who should then examine and audit the same, and that, when so examined and audited, and the balance in the treasurer's hands ascertained and struck, he should sign such account, and the same should be countersigned by all the trustees who should then be present, as a testimonial of their approbation thereof, and that such balance as might then appear to be in such treasurer's hands, should be carried to the next succeeding yearly account, to be made out by him as aforesaid, or that the same be paid over to his successor, if he should either resign his office as treasurer, or that the trustees should appoint another in his place and stead; and that, if at any time thereafter on examining and auditing such account, a balance should appear in the treasurer's hands more than sufficient to answer every immediate purpose of the charity, the said testator directed, that within one month next after, the excess should be laid out in the purchase of four per cent bank annuities, in the names of all the then trustees, and become part of the trust capital stock of the charity, and never be lessened or diminished; and that, if it should appear that the dividends and interest to arise on such additional trust stock, should be sufficient to provide for one or more child or children, beyond the number of forty therein-before directed to be elected on the foundation of the charity, that the trustees should at their next quarterly meeting to be had after auditing such account, elect and chuse such one or more child or children of such description as aforesaid, as the interest and dividends of such additional trust stock should be sufficient to answer and pay for, and continue such child or children on the foundation of the charity, for the like time as aforesaid.

The said testator, by another codicil to his will, dated 23rd August 1792, gave and bequeathed to the Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells, and to the rector of the said parish of Frome, for the time being, and to the treasurer and such of the trustees of the boys charity school at Frome aforesaid, who should be members of the church of England, the principal sum of £7,000., four per cent bank annuities, upon trust, that they should lay out and expend a sum not exceeding £1,000., of the principal sum of £7,000. trust stock, in the purchase of an estate of inheritance, in fee simple, of and in one or more messuages adjoining each other, to be situate within the said parish of Frome, extensive enough and capable of being converted into an hospital for the habitation, lodging and accommodation of 20 poor aged men, born in the said parish, who, from age or bodily infirmities, might be incapable of following any trade, calling, business or employment to maintain and provide for themselves, to be elected and chosen at the time and in the manner thereafter mentioned: And in case it should happen, that the said trustees should not be able to purchase such house or houses and premises, situate as aforesaid, then he directed such trustees to buy and purchase, in fee simple, a proper and convenient piece of ground, and to cause a good and substantial stone building to be erected and built as an hospital, containing proper apartments and suitable conveniences, with necessary out-offices, for the habitation, lodging and accommodation of such a number of old men, and such steward, superintendent, servants and assistants, as might be retained and employed therein; and he directed that the like public notices should be given of such intended building, and that all, each and every of the directions he had given in and by his last mentioned codicil, respecting an asylum for the maintenance and education of female children, and all each and every

of the trusts he had created thereby, should, as to such of them to which the establishment of the aforesaid hospital could be applied, be the basis of the trusts of the said £7,000., four per cent bank annuities, directed to be transferred to the said trustees, according to the true spirit of such trusts, and that all the rules orders and regulations he had directed by his said codicil, respecting the said asylum, should, so far as they could possibly be applied or made consonant to, be followed, and for ever continued, as the rules orders and regulations of the establishment of the said hospital.

Asylum and Hospital.

The testator died sometime in the year 1797, (a) and in the month of March 1798, the trustees purchased of John Stevens, a piece of land, situate in the parish of Frome, and began the building of the asylum and hospital, which form one building, and were finished in the year 1803, at an expense of £6,439. 18s. as appears from the books kept by the trustees; the whole of this expenditure was paid out of the dividends which accrued between the commencement and conclusion of the building, without applying any part of the £12,000. or £7,000. stock given by the testator, which remained in the names of the trustees until about the month of October 1818, when £500. stock was sold by them out of each of the said two sums of £12,000. and £7,000., to purchase a field in front of the said asylum and hospital, to prevent any building being erected thereon, which might be prejudicial to the said charities.

The two sums of £500. stock, when sold, produced the sum of £838. 12s. 6d.; of which £701. 4s. 7d. was paid for the purchase money and expenses of the field or land so purchased, and the remainder, together with a small sum in the treasurer's hands, lent upon mortgage to Mr. William Creese, producing an interest of £8. 10s. per annum, payable in equal moieties to the two charities. (N)

The field, except a small part of it which is kept for the use of the hospital, and in which the old men work, is let in small garden plots, to different people, at rents producing in the whole £33. per annum, a moiety of which belongs to each of the two charities

In July 1804, 10 girls were admitted into the asylum, and the number has been gradually increased to 27, which is the present number, the income of the charity not being sufficient to maintain a larger number.

The children are provided with clothes, board and lodging, and are taught reading, writing, needle-work, household-work, and washing.

(a) He died the 2nd. of May, 1796.

(N) The Commissioners have mistaken this—All Creese's Mortgage belongs to the Asylum.

They attend prayers every morning and evening in the chapel, except Sundays, when they go to church with the matron.

The annual income of the asylum is £480. 15s. arising from the dividends of £11,500., £4. per cents, now standing in the names of the trustees, and a moiety (N) of the interest of the sum of £170., lent upon mortgage as before mentioned, and of the rent of the field so purchased as aforesaid.

The expenditure last year was £510. 7s. 8½d. the particulars whereof are hereinafter stated, and the difference between the receipt and expenditure of last year, was paid out of the balance of £334. 15s. 5¾d. in the hands of the trustees upon the accounts of former years.

The balance now in the hands of the treasurer is £92. 0s. 6¼d. exclusive of a moiety (N) of the sum of £170., lent upon mortgage as aforesaid.

When the children are put out apprentice, a fee of £5. is paid with them, and they take their clothes with them.

When they are put out as servants, they take their old clothes, and receive 40s. to purchase others, according to the direction of the testator's codicil.

The trustees, being of opinion that many parts of their duty which had relation to the girls would be better performed by females, have prevailed upon some of the most respectable ladies in the parish to assist them. These ladies, who are principally the relations of the trustees, attend the asylum, taking it by turns each to visit for a week, and once in six weeks they have a general meeting.

They add their superintendence to that of the matron, in teaching the children their catechism and religious duties, needle and other work.

They assist also in finding proper situations for the children when placed out of the asylum.

HOSPITAL.

There are at present only 13 old men in the hospital, and it appears that the income of the hospital is insufficient to support a greater number.

The revenue of the hospital arises from the dividends of £6,500., 4 per cent, standing in the names of the trustees—

The expenditure last year was £338. 14s. 2d. as appears from the account set forth in the Appendix, leaving a balance of £57. 19s. 2d. against the charity; but it is to be observed, that there is in the account of last year, a charge of £81. 18s. 10d. for clothing, which charge will not occur next year, as the men are clothed but once in two years.

The deficiency of last year was paid out of a small balance, in the hands of the treasurer, upon the accounts of the year 1817, which balance has been since expended; and there is now due to the treasurer the sum of £20. 6s. 4d. as appears by his books of account, which were produced and examined.

The old men live in the house, and have separate sleeping rooms, and are wholly clothed every two years, have shoes every year, and are supplied with linen and other necessaries when wanted. They each of them receive 4s. a-week to purchase food, and are supplied with vegetables from the garden; they are also supplied with firing, and are allowed washing, and every thing necessary for their lodging.

Whenever a vacancy occurs, either in the asylum or the hospital, public notice is given in the parish church, of the time when the trustees will meet to elect one or more girls or men (who must have been born in the parish) into the asylum or hospital, as the vacancies may happen.

It is not required that the men should be of the church of England at the time of their election, or that the girls should be children of members of the church of England; but it is expected that the men and girls should, after they are elected, attend the service of the church of England, as directed by the testator.

An annual meeting of the trustees is held on the second Monday after Christmas, when the accounts of the asylum and hospital are inspected by the trustees, and audited. The accounts are afterwards signed by the treasurer, and countersigned by the trustees then present.

 Church,

Frome, at his own expense, conveyed the said lands and premises to nine trustees and their heirs, upon trust, out of the rents and profits to pay a stipend of £60. to the minister for the time being of the said church, and an annuity of £15. to the vicar of Old Windsor, in the county of Berks, and their successors, for ever: And upon further trust, to pay the sum of £10. yearly, by equal half-yearly payments at Lady-day and Michaelmas, for and towards the education of 25 poor children in reading and writing, of which said 25 children, 15 were to be of the parish of Frome aforesaid, and 10 of the parish of Corsley, in the county of Wilts, and such children to be from time to time nominated and placed, displaced or removed, by the said nine trustees, and the survivors of them, or the major part of them, or by the trustees for the time being, or the major part of them; and the said testator gave the residue of the rents of the said estates to the said trustees, for keeping the said premises in repair; and he directed, that whenever the said trustees should be reduced to four, such four surviving trustees should convey the said trust estates to the use of themselves and five other proper persons, living near the capital messuage of Longleat, and their heirs, to be allowed and approved of by the said Lord Viscount Weymouth, or the owners of Longleat, for the time being.

The said trust estates have from time to time been conveyed to new trustees, according to the directions of the above deed, and are now, by virtue of indentures of lease and release, dated the 8th and 9th days of June 1797, vested in his Grace the Duke of Somerset, the right honourable the Earl of Cork and Orrery, Sir Richard Colt Hoare, bart. Sir Aylmer Bourke Lambert, bart. the right honourable Lord George Thynne, the right honourable Lord John Thynne, and James Anthony Wickham, gentleman, as surviving trustees.

The trustees have regularly paid the said two annual sums of £60. and £15., to the minister of the church of Frome Woodlands, and the vicar of Old Windsor, respectively, and applied the sum of £10. per annum, in the education of 25 poor children, as directed by the original deed.

The present trustees, in the year 1816, appointed William Woodlands schoolmaster, at a salary of £10. per annum. There are now 12 girls and 9 boys, who are taught reading and writing in the school, and it was intended by the trustees to fill up the number of 25 children, at or before Christmas last.

“In the 19th of JAMES the First (1621) EDMUND LEVERSEDGE and ROBERT his eldest Son did, by Deed of Feoffment, convey all the before-mentioned premises unto ROBERT SMYTH and others, upon trust that they should permit twelve poor people, men and women, born or to be born in the said Parish of Frome, to dwell and be resident in the then late erected almshouse, and enjoy the same and the said Gardens, and have the whole profits thereof, and the said four acres of land, and all rents and fines to be made or raised on the said premises, for their better relief and sustenance, and for the maintenance of the said Almshouse, under the direction of the said Trustees; in like manner as it had been enjoyed for upwards of one hundred and sixty years.”

MR. CROCKER states “that the building by EDMUND LEVERSEDGE seems to have been the second building, and that it stood alone by the road side, near where the guard-house now stands.”

* “The Trustees of these Charities have prudently directed this bequest of Mr. Stafford’s to be paid to the fourteen poor women in the Almshouse, in weekly bread; each poor woman having a six-penny and a three-penny loaf delivered to her weekly. The Baker who supplies the poor women with their weekly bread, is paid in this manner:—at the end of a quarter he deposits a receipt for £7. 10s. (signed by three Trustees,) with some tradesman or other person of Frome who has cash-connexion in London; by whom it is tendered to the Treasurer of Mr. Stafford’s Charity in Bread Street, London; who thereupon pays the cash to the person tendering the receipt. At the Michaelmas meeting, the Annual Account is made out, in form as stated in the book of Mr. Stafford’s accounts, which is transmitted to the London Trustees in manner as aforesaid.” The above Sum of four times £7. 10s. being £30.—and Stafford’s Gift for the poor women, given in bread, being £28—the odd £2. is paid by the Baker at the Michaelmas Quarter to the annual Treasurer, who applies it for the Sermon, &c. as directed by the Donor. And that the present twenty Trustees which have been approved and to whom the said Almshouse and Lands are conveyed, and also all other Trustees for the time being, and the survivors of them be, and be deemed, called, and taken to be Trustees and Governors of the said Almshouse, Almshouse-lands, and Premises, according to the Rules and Orders hereinafter mentioned.

“ ‘ITEM SECOND. And to that end and the better to enable them so to be, that the said School-house lands and premises be from time to time as occasion shall require, conveyed to the same twenty persons who are the said Almshouse Trustees, and their heirs, upon the following trust (that is to say) that the said Trustees and Governors, or the majority of them present at any such quarterly meetings as are hereinafter mentioned, do elect and appoint a fit and proper person to be master of the said Charity School, and so from time to time as often as any vacancy shall happen, either by the death or removal of any such “‘ITEM SIXTH. That the said Governors and Trustees, or the majority of them who shall be present at any of such quarterly meetings as are hereinafter mentioned, do when and so often as they shall think fit elect and appoint a Treasurer or Receiver of the rents and profits of the said Charity School lands in the same manner with the like power authority and provision for the said Treasurer or Receiver’s delivering annually his account in writing and for settling and adjusting the accounts of such Treasurer or Receiver, and for entering and recording such accounts in a proper ledger-book to be kept for that purpose, in the manner before mentioned, and also for making agreements for letting or leases of the said Charity School lands, to or with any tenant or tenants as are hereinbefore mentioned and proposed touching the said Almshouse lands and the accounts relating thereto.

“‘ITEM SEVENTH. That the said Treasurer or Receiver, so to be appointed, do and shall apply the rents and profits of the said lands and premises belonging to the said Charity School to pay the yearly salary to the Schoolmaster by quarterly payments as before directed; and out of the residue of the said rents and profits shall and do pay and apply such sum and sums of money for and towards clothing the poor boys to be placed in the said Charity School, and for pens, ink, paper, and books for them, as the said Governors and Trustees or the majority of them present at any such quarterly meetings as are hereinafter mentioned shall direct and appoint.

“‘ITEM EIGHTH. That whenever and so often as a new Treasurer or Receiver shall be appointed of the rents and profits either of the said Almshouse or School lands, and the accounts of the former Treasurer or Receiver shall be audited, the several and respective balances of money (if any such) which shall be found to be and remain in the hands of such former Treasurer and Receiver upon either of those accounts, shall, within fourteen days after such audit, be paid to the succeeding Treasurer or Receiver so to be chosen and appointed; to be applied for the use and benefit of the aforesaid several Charities respectively.

“‘ITEM NINTH. That the Governors and Trustees shall meet four times in every year, as well upon the business of the said Almshouse as the said Charity school, (that is to say) the first Monday after Christinas, the first Monday after Lady-Day, the first Monday after Midsummer day, and the first Monday after Michaelmas day, in the Vestry room of the parish Church of Frome Selwood aforesaid, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

“‘ITEM TENTH. That the said Governors and Trustees, or the majority of them then present at any of such quarterly meetings, shall have power and authority to admit as many poor boys of the said parish into the said Charity School, to be clothed and taught to read and write, and to be educated in the knowledge and practice of the Christian Religion as professed and taught in the Church of England, and such other things as shall be most suitable to their age and condition, in such manner and for such time as the said Governors and Trustees, or the major part of them present at such quarterly meetings, shall think fit and appoint.

“‘ITEM ELEVENTH. That the said Governors and Trustees at any such of their said quarterly meetings, or the majority of them then present, shall have power to remove as well such of the poor people belonging to the said Almshouse, as the said poor boys belonging to the said Charity School, who shall be found to have committed or been guilty of any great offence or misbehaviour, and to place others in their room, as also to fill up vacancies that may happen by deaths or otherwise in the said School and Almshouse. And in case the said Schoolmaster to be appointed as aforesaid shall appear to be unfit and become incapable or otherwise misdeemean or misbehave himself in his life and conversation, that then the said Governors and Trustees or the majority of them present at any such of their quarterly meetings as aforesaid shall have power and authority to displace and remove the said Schoolmaster, and to appoint another in his room, and so from time to time as there shall be occasion.’”

CHRIST CHURCH.

In the year 1814, there being only one Church in the Town of Frome, and one at a place called the Woodlands in the same parish, but about three miles from the Town, a subscription was made for the building and endowment of an additional church. This church, which is named Christ Church was built in the years 1817 and 1818, and was consecrated September 15, 1818. The expense of building it, including quarrying stones, carriage, and all incidentals, as particularized in the book in Mr. Wickham's possession, was about £3,900. The Rev. Joseph Algar, M. A. at that time Curate of Frome, was nominated Minister of the said Church by the Rev. Charles Phillott, M. A. Vicar of Frome, at the unanimous request of the Committee of Subscribers.

The endowment consists of forty acres of land at Grandon, in the parish of Frome, now in the occupation of Thomas Harding : nine acres of land and about half an acre of orchard, at Paulton, now in the occupation of John Flower. £93. 18s. 9d. three per cent reduced in the public funds. And the house at Keyford, in which the Rev. Mr. Algar now resides, with the garden and field adjoining.

and they by deed of the same date, declared that the conveyance was upon the trusts following, viz.

And if vacancies be not filled up when each happens, and the number be reduced to twenty-one, they are to elect enough to make up with themselves, the number of thirty-one, and to convey the church and land to them, and so from time to time.

Further particulars on the above subjects, and the progress of the undertaking—the Subscriptions, and Subscribers Names—the Building—Endowment—Consecration—Subscription for Organ—and other circumstances, are stated in the minute and order book of the proceedings; now in the possession of Mr. Wickham.

NATIONAL SCHOOL.

A Sunday School having been established in Frome for some years, by members of the established church; at a meeting of the subscribers on the 5th of February, 1819, it was resolved to erect a new and larger School Room: and, after many difficulties which are recorded in the Committee's book of proceedings, now in the possession of Mr. Bunn, the land on which the school was then erecting, was, on the 6th of April, 1824, conveyed by two deeds to trustees; and the trusts declared by a third, as follows: that is to say, "Upon special trust and confidence in the first place that the said school house or building now erecting and intended to be erected and built upon part of the said plots or pieces of ground and hereditaments and such other buildings and necessary appendages thereto as may be requisite for the same shall be finished as soon as conveniently may be, and when completed shall be used on the sabbath day as a school for the instruction in religious knowledge of the children of all denominations of Christians who may be sent to or attend such school at such times and subject to such rules as are hereinafter expressed or shall henceforth be made and provided by the persons and in manner hereinafter mentioned and particularly to the rules and regulations following that is to say that no person shall be admitted or appointed as a teacher master or mistress in the said Sunday School nor in the said National School whether gratuitous or otherwise who is not a strict member of the Episcopal Church by law established in this Kingdom of England also that all children who shall attend the school shall also attend public worship at the churches of the said establishment in Frome aforesaid or one of them and shall be instructed in the reading and knowledge of the Scriptures and the Church Liturgy and Catechism also that no person shall be admitted into the said school as a superintendant examiner or regulator or be permitted to order regulate or interfere with the teachers or children attending the said school except the trustees for the time being of the same or such person or persons as shall or may be from time to time by them appointed for those purposes respectively also that no book or books shall be admitted into or made use of in the said school but such as have received or may receive the sanction of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge or of the Diocesan Branch Society of Wells in and for the county of Somerset aforesaid and upon this further trust that the said

THE PLANTED SLOPES IN FRONT OF THE NATIONAL SCHOOL.

When the Trustees of the Frome Turnpike Roads improved Bath-Street, and the place called Behind Town, it became necessary to excavate, in some instances to the depth of fifteen feet: and they had a choice, either to raise walls more than fifteen feet high, or to make Slopes. Such high walls would have looked like the walls of a prison, and they believed would be quite as expensive, probably more so, than the purchase and formation of Slopes. The Slopes have been planted almost entirely at private expense, and have the advantage of keeping away stables, dunghills, and killing houses, which before appeared at the sides of the road. The repair of the Slopes is at present paid for at private expense; and the public have the benefit. The Slopes are vested in Trustees pursuant to the authority in the Frome Turnpike Act. The Deeds are at Mr. Wickham's. Four feet in breadth of the level ground at the top of the Slopes are conveyed to the Trustees in most cases. The Marquis of Bath gave five hundred pounds, and the Earl of Cork two hundred pounds, to be disposed of in the improvement at Frome, as the Trustees of the Road thought proper.

Appendix Z, page 29.

FREE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

Although the trustees of the other Frome Charities have never had any controul over or connection with this Free Grammar School, yet they have thought it a duty which, as inhabitants of Frome, they owed to the public, to make enquiries into the circumstances, which the commissioners have so very properly and attentively noticed in their report—And first as to Flintford Farm—The Charity Commissioners having stated that “from “ part of the evidence before them, there is ground for supposing some “ lands called Flintford Farm, at Rodden, the property of the Rev. J.
“ M. Rogers, Rector of Berkley—and a farm at Trudoxhill, in the pos“ session of King, a farmer, to be two of the estates so charged” (towards the support of the Free Grammar School,) due enquiry has been made; and it is ascertained that Flintford was not the name of any one particular Farm, but of a manor, and many farms or lands. It is not, as stated by the Commissioners, in Rodden; but in the parish of Frome. Miss Prowse, whom Mr. Rogers afterwards married, bought the manor of Flintford about 1780—and sold off various parts—A part was sold to Mr. King of Trudoxhill, in the parish of Nunney. Mr. Rogers, who has now possessed this estate for 50 years, has never paid any sum to this school—nor has any demand been ever made for it—and there seems to be nothing to shew or to make it probable, that this land is thus charged—Mr. Rogers has been a most munificent donor to the charities, and churches in this neighbourhood;—having given many hundred pounds to Frome—and no man is more unlikely to neglect paying any sum due from his estate to a charity. The 20s. per annum given by John A‘Court to the Free School, out of a tenement in Nunney as mentioned in page 10, may be the charge here alluded to.

As to the information respecting Mr. Pocock and the books and globes. It appears that Mr. Pocock died intestate. His administrators and nearest relations are gentlemen incapable of having designedly disposed of property not belonging to them—and Mr. Pocock was, as a very attentive and conscientious schoolmaster, a most unlikely person to be guilty of wilfully destroying or embezzling the globes or books in question.—It seems that the globes which the executors sold were a new pair, bought by the late Mr. Pocock. There were once two old globes, but they had become worthless; and were not used during the time the Rev. Mr. Pocock was master of the school. However, there certainly were some books: of which, it is feared, due care was not taken by Mr. Pocock—the boys of the school having very improperly been allowed access to them after the library was added to the north end of the school room, in order to accommodate the increased number of his pupils.

The present master of the Grammar School, the Rev. W. M. H. Williams, A.M. (who was elected to the mastership in 1819) on his appointment to the school, found remaining, of the supposed former school library, only three old worm-eaten books, of very little value; but as about sixteen years elapsed between the death of the Rev. J. Pocock and the appointment of the Rev. W. M. H. Williams, during which period the school room was occupied by other persons, it is very possible that many of the books may have been lost or destroyed during the interval of so many years.

The annual sum paid out of the treasury is £5. 2s. 10½*d*. No payments have been made to the present master out of any of the estates, supposed to be chargeable with them.

It is hoped that this compilation will contribute to prevent similar inattention to the property and interests of the Frome Charities in future.

A Map of all the Lands belonging to the Blue School and Alms-house, in the parishes of Frome and Nunney, is now in the custody of Mr. Wickham.

Mr. John Stevens, in addition to his other gifts, gave in his life-time to the Vicar and Trustees of the Charity School the sum of four hundred pounds, four per Cent., for lighting the Church at the Evening Service. This sum is now in the three-and-half per Cents. in the names of James Anthony Wickham, George Sheppard, and James Whalley Dawe Thomas Wickham; and the annual Dividends are paid by them to the Churchwardens.

By the liberality of the Marquis of Bath, and the exertions of the Rev. Hill Wickham, the present Curate, a Building is now being erected in the Woodlands, near to the Church, for a School-Room for poor Boys and Girls; a Dwelling for the Mistress; and a Room for the officiating Clergyman. With the convenience of this building it is hoped that the School, endowed with ten pounds per annum by Henry Frederick Thynne, Esq., which sum is now become inadequate as a Master's Salary, may be re-established in a permanent and efficient manner.

POSTSCRIPT.

The Trustees feeling deeply anxious for the prosperity and efficiency of these excellent Establishments, wish to leave behind them some few hints, the result of much experience, for the benefit of those who may succeed them in office.

They trust that they shall not thus subject themselves to the charge of arrogance or presumption, because many of them have witnessed the origin and progress of some of the Institutions herein enumerated; have been parties to the various regulations which from time to time have been made; and, by remedying defects which experience alone could point out, have been enabled, under the Divine Blessing, to bring the various Establishments to their present state of respectability and practical efficiency.

They would therefore respectfully, but earnestly, beg all future Trustees to make the most rigid enquiry respecting the moral character and habits, and the religious opinions, of all Masters and Mistresses appointed by them; and to observe closely their conduct and deportment afterwards: they would recommend frequent visits to the Blue School, the Alms-house, the Asylum, and the Hospital.

They have found the inefficacy of mere formal recitation of the Catechism, or other elementary compendiums of Christian Doctrine, and they recommend a liberal supply of some of those excellent publications which have lately been put in the list of the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge; from which the Masters and Mistresses should be requested, by means of viva voce explanations and questions, to ground the Children well in the principles of our Holy Religion, as maintained and taught by the Established Church, to instruct them respecting the claims of the Church, the excellency of her Liturgy, and especially of the Morning and Evening Service in which they are required to join; Scripture reading and explanation, both to the old and the young, should also form a portion of every day's employment.

It may be thought that the propriety of these things is so obvious that they needed not to be mentioned. The fact however is, that they are seldom attended to as they ought to be; and yet, without constant attention, these Institutions cannot possibly accomplish those beneficent purposes for which they were intended.

May the Divine Blessing ever attend and prosper these excellent Establishments, so that, from generation to generation, they may promote the best interests of all connected with them; and may thus conduce to the glory of God, through Jesus Christ our Lord.
